Our Learning This Week:

Reading: This week, students have been continuing to look at strategies in our non-fiction unit on how to solve hard words. Students are learning good habits for solving hard words by checking the picture in a book, looking at ALL the parts of a word, doing a slow check, and saying a tricky word the best that they can. We also took our reading assessment on answering and asking questions about the Statue of Liberty.

Writing: Next week, students will continue to work on their all about stories by adding more details to each page. They have been learning to teach their readers all about a topic by writing twin sentences, using who/what/why/how/when, and labeling pictures.

Math: We have been working on subtracting 7, 8, and 9 from teen numbers such as 13-7, 14-8, 15-9, etc. Students are learning multiple strategies on how to solve these problems by drawing pictures, number bonds, and number paths.
